Behind the design

How we got help to develop HEMNES
When we developed new products for HEMNES bathroom series, we formed an online group and invited people who don't work with product development to co-create with us. More people mean more ideas, and more ways to solve some of the everyday problems at home. That's why the HEMNES series now also have a storage bench, an open wash-stand, a wall shelf and a high cabinet with glass door.

How we got help to develop HEMNES

What do you need in the bathroom to make it more convenient and better organised? Usually, we bury ourselves in research and reports to find out, but when we developed new products for HEMNES bathroom series, we decided to try something different. We invited people who normally don't work with product development to co-create with us and find new and unexpected solutions.
